DETAILED ACTION

This is the first action relating to serial application number 10/691,160, filed 10-22-2003.

Claims 1-8 are currently pending.

Drawings

1. The examiner has accepted the drawing filed with this application.

Specification

2. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: the first paragraph is missing the sub-title --Field of the Invention--The following guidelines illustrate the preferred layout for the specification of a utility application. These guidelines are suggested for the applicant's use.

Claim Objections

3. Claim 5 is objected to because of the following informalities: in claim 5, line 4, the reference numeral "20" should be --10-- because "10" represents the flywheel. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by EP (0898096) to Gambini. Gambini disclose discloses a CVT drive comprising a shaft (7); a flywheel (9); a drive assembly idle with respect to the shaft and driving a drive pulley

Art Unit: 3682

(1) having two half pulleys defining a groove there between for a belt, a friction clutch (9a) between the flywheel and a pulley half; a centrifugal control assembly (17) comprising a speed adjusting device (22) for adjusting the groove of the adjusting pulley in response to the variation of the speed of the shaft; the centrifugal control assembly comprising a centrifugal actuating device (21/23) controlling the clutch and setting the clutch means for torque transmission in responsive to the speed of the shaft. Due to the variation of the speed of the shaft, it is apparent that the speed of the shaft includes a first threshold value to connect the drive pulley to the speed of the fly wheel and the speed adjusting means being active over a second threshold value of the speed of the shaft and higher than the first threshold value.

In claim 2, Gambini inherently discloses the claimed invention.

In claim 3, note the sleeve (6) and the first pulley half (3) being fitted fix to the sleeve and the movable pulley half (4) being axially movable relative to the sleeve.

In claim 4, note the stop (12) that defines a maximum parting position of the movable pulley half.

In claim 5, note the clutch disk (8).

In claim 6, it is apparent that the weights (22) rotate integrally with the shaft (7) and acting on a push member (23) interposed between the weights and the drive assembly to move the drive assembly towards the fly wheel and grip the clutch disk between the fly wheel and the first half pulley.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 7-8 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. WO 98/48198) discloses a cvt having a flywheel, and a clutch between the drive assembly and the flywheel. Ward (3,830,112) discloses a centrifugal type cvt having a flywheel. Borghi (US2002/0034995) and US (2002/0017440) disclose a CVT friction clutch between an input member and a drive assembly. Leclair et al. (6,520,878) discloses a CVT with a flywheel. Sweger (2,512,816) and Koivunen (4,608,885) disclose a centrifugal type CVT with a friction clutch and a drive assembly.
